Plan Tractor School in Covina, January 15-21

Coming as one of the first activities of the newly-organized Covina city and valley chamber of commerce, and arranged in conjunction with the Covina farm center, it was practically assured yesterday that the annual tractor school of the state department of agriculture will be held in Covina during the week of January 15 to 21.

Through the efforts of Edward Insley, rancher of Puente street, who is night editor of the Los Angeles Examiner, County Farm Advisor Hodgson was induced to consider the placing of this important meet in Covina. Mr. Hodgson said yesterday that there was no reason why Covina should not be selected. The school has been conducted in the San Fernando valley for several years. It is the information of the farm advisor that there are more tractors in use in the upper San Gabriel valley than in any other part of Los Angeles county.

It is understood that the school of instruction is limited to sixty students, who must be farm owners or operators of tractors on farms. The instruction consists in taking tractors and assembling them, and in teaching the best methods of care and operation. Demonstrations will be made on the ranches, and probably on the high school grounds, with evening lectures in the Covina grammar school auditorium, where facilities for the showing of stereopticon pictures can be had. The meetings are open to the public, but it is understood that the enrollment of students must be made and limited to sixty, as the state has only three instructors available. Local ranchers of the valley are urged to enroll with County Advisor Hodgson at once, in order that the instruction may be confined as much as possible to this locality.

The matter was taken up this week with President J. D. Reed of the Covina chamber, who appointed a committee to act, and President George W. Aschenbrenner of the Covina farm center was in consultation with Mr. Hodgson yesterday.

John C. Moore Dies After Short Illness

John C. Moore, for ten years the Covina agent for the Los Angeles Times, died suddenly at his home here last Sunday, November 13, following an attack of pneumonia. He was 74 years old, having been born in Palmyra, New York, August 8, 1847.

Mr. Moore's death was a decided shock to his host of friends in the city and valley, and he was known to almost every person because of his long service as a newspaper agent. He had suffered from ill health due to hardening of the arteries, but had been caring for his business for years with courage and fidelity. No newspaper service ever equaled that given by Mr. Moore, as he was at all times scrupulous and painstaking in his deliveries, and this was highly appreciated by the many customers throughout the valley. His kindly nature made him many friends who mourn his sudden passing.

Mr. Moore leaves his faithful wife, Ella F. Moore, one son, William H. Moore of Los Angeles, and a granddaughter, Margaret Moore. The funeral was held from the chapel of Godeau & Martinoni in Los Angeles Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, with Rev. Cordes of the Evangelical church officiating. There have been many expressions of regret from his friends here because of his death.

Mr. Moore was united in marriage in 1866 to Ella Frances Hyde, and moved to Michigan in 1867. He was engaged in the grocery and livery business for many years. He came to Monrovia in 1905 and to Covina in 1909. Besides the present living son there were two other children, one dying in infancy and the other at the age of eighteen. The body was laid to rest in Oddfellows' cemetery, Los Angeles.

Huntington Mutual at 500-Foot Level

Jesse Berry, president of the Huntington Mutual Oil Company, said yesterday that the well being bored at Huntington Beach is now down nearly 500 feet, and that the work of putting in the 15½-inch case began yesterday. This announcement came after Mr. Berry's advertisement in this issue went to press, and the president wished it known that the well has progressed 150 feet in depth during the past week.

Covina Beats Downey by a Lop-sided Score

Covina high school is closing the football season with an outstanding success in the game played on Armistice day with Downey high school, which resulted in a score in favor of Covina of 113 to 0. Although Downey stands at the head of the league in which she has been playing this year, she was no match for the Covina team. Herbert Morey made a number of the touchdowns for Covina.

CHARTER OAK ORANGES WELCOME IN NORWAY

A box of Charter Oak oranges, sent in a shipment to Norway and Sweden, arrived in excellent condition, and were pronounced the finest oranges ever received at that point, according to a letter received this week by Olaf Mickelson of Section Center, Charter Oak, who sent the present to his uncle, Frederick Mickelson at Christiania, Norway.

The Norway recipient of the fruit is treasurer of the church department of the government of Norway. He wrote an enthusiastic letter of thanks to his American nephew.

The Charter Oak Citrus Association has several times sent shipments to Liverpool, which have been distributed in the Netherlands and in the Scandinavian countries.

Subscription Lot Sale Takes Place Tomorrow

By J. L. MATTHEWS.

A miniature orange grove, within two blocks of the Covina postoffice, can be bought tomorrow (Saturday, November 19) for the initial payment of $250. This is a subscription sale.

Anyone who can raise $250 can move onto a 50x175 foot building lot at once. The purchaser will be buying a full-sized Covina lot, with fourteen navel orange trees with one of the largest crops ever seen in this valley on the trees. These trees are over eighteen years old, and in top-notch condition. The soil is saturated with high-grade fertilizer.

These lots are in the new Dexter Place subdivision, just east of the eighteen lots I sold two weeks ago, and which were snapped up in three hours after the sale started. Seven lots face on Puente street, where the street work is in and paid for, and these will sell for $850. Two hundred and fifty dollars down and the balance in three equal payments swings the deal.

Fourteen lots are on the extension of Dexter street, and will be sold for $700 on the same terms as the others.

The entire tract is to be closed out tomorrow. Anyone who wishes to see the lots in person, or to make a reservation, call up any realty dealer, or call me at phones 3 and 8. This proposition will not last but for a few hours tomorrow, as there are no other such desirable lots to be had for this money in the city.

Covina Wins Last Game From Alhambra

After struggling against heavy odds through the entire football season, Covina high school yesterday afternoon won her first league game through defeating Alhambra by a score of 7 to 6.

Covina fans said that the home team game, and would have won by heavier odds if it had not been for frequent fumbles. Alhambra's score was made through an unlucky fumble on the part of a Covina player.

There was tremendous enthusiasm on the Covina field when the final play was made, as the Covina team has been struggling bravely against heavier teams throughout the season, and the victory from Alhambra gives them one successful game to end the season.

The standing of the teams will be given in next week's issue.

Parent-Teachers Hold Quarterly Meeting

The quarterly meeting of the Covina district federation of Parent-Teachers' associations was held on Thursday afternoon of last week in the Covina grammar school.

Mrs. H. B. Archbold of South Pasadena, president of the first district federation, was present and gave an interesting address on the reasons for the existence of the parent-teacher's associations. A movement was started to organize a high school association.

J. D. Coles of the First National bank addressed the Covina association at a well-attended meeting on Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Coles explained the campaign for more thrift which has been inaugurated in the federal banking system, in which the cooperation of the public schools and of the parents in inculcating habits of saving, has been asked. A fixed allowance of spending money for the child, with a savings bank account and a definite objective for saving, was suggested to the fathers and mothers present.

Apparel Shop Under New Management

Kathryn Whitted of Los Angeles, a young lady for years connected with departments handling garments for women, will be in charge of the Elite Apparel Shop, which is located in the rooms with the Elite Millinery on Citrus avenue.

This apparel shop has been a distinct success under the managements of Miss Violet Tucker, now Mrs. Pete Varcos, and the new management announces that there will be as fine a line of women's apparel carried as in the past. An announcement of the new line being added will be found on another page of this issue.

Holy Trinity Dinner and Bazaar Held Last Night

With yellow marigolds and greenery predominant in the decorations, and with gaily-bedecked booths, the annual fall supper and bazaar of the Ladies' Guild of Holy Trinity Episcopal church was held last night in the Woman's clubhouse, marking something like the twentieth consecutive year of this popular event.

Under the direction of Mrs. B. M. Given, president of the Guild, and assisted by all the ladies of the church, a chicken supper was served at seven o'clock, with the tables filled by the people of the city and valley. The dinner was prepared under the direction of Mrs. C. E. Crawford and committee, with Mrs. Ralph Crook heading the committee in charge of the tables.

The booths were an especially delightful attraction this year, with many useful and ornamental articles for sale. The fish-pond, always a distinct feature under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. William Bowring, was more than usually popular. The pond was surrounded by an imitation brick wall, and the booth was made in a garden effect. Miss Bryant added a touch of novelty to her wares by offering marshmallows in the form of little dolls. The fudge booth was again a center of interest, under the direction of Mrs. Cyril Platt, while the fancy work table was presided over by Mrs. W. W. Nash. Aprons were very popular at the booth of Mrs. Frank Kendall. Afternoon tea was served from little tables on the stage, with Mrs. J. E. Ricketts as hostess. Mrs. Alice Burpee had charge of the ticket sale.

Following the supper and bazaar sale a very acceptable musical program was furnished by members of the choir and their friends, as arranged by Mrs. Harry Damerel.

The Guild is crowning a very satisfactory year with this successful affair, from the proceeds of which the ladies will equip their new kitchen, a gift to them from the vestry, and which has just been completed. The ladies are especially proud of a new eight-burner range, just installed, and are laying plans for a number of events in the parish hall, including the monthly dinners which have come to be a feature of this church.

Chamber of Commerce in Road Program

At the meeting of the board of directors of the Covina city and valley chamber of commerce held yesterday noon at the Park restaurant, the following committees were appointed: to investigate proposed extension of South Citrus avenue through the hills to the Pomona boulevard—Gordon C. Douglas, M. Leonhardt, Irven Reynolds, V. O. English, H. M. Houser, G. D. Jennings, H. E. Milliken; to see supervisors concerning the increasing of county police, as recommended by Constable J. J. Venable, C. E. Huxley, to investigate into needs of high school district—J. D. Coles, J. L. Matthews, G. F. Rinehart, A. P. Kerckhoff, J. M. Stanton, Oscar Miller, and Harry Gordon.

The directors endorsed the Salvation Army drive for funds, which commences immediately.

I. Worth Everett of the Ford garage left this week for Temecula on a hunting trip.

Organizations Endorse Salvation Army Drive

At yesterday's meeting of the chamber of commerce the members endorsed the "Home Service" drive of the Salvation army which is to be conducted here by the field representative, H. J. Wilson of Southern division headquarters. The drive was also endorsed by the local post of the American Legion of Covina at its meeting on Monday.

Donations may be made at the local banks, the Buick agency or the chamber of commerce. At the present time funds are badly needed by the Salvation army.

Early in the Christmas season, in order that women and children, old men and disabled soldiers out of employment, may be taken care of during this season of the year and during the coming winter.

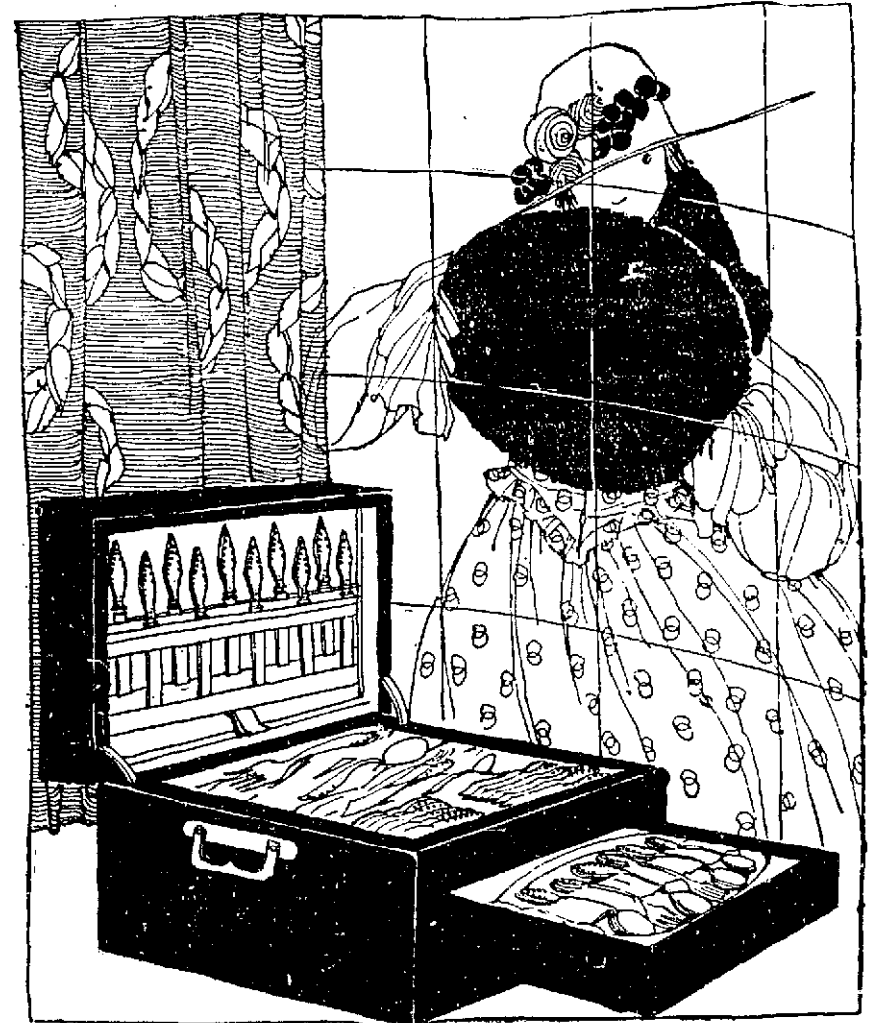

Born to Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Feist on Friday, a daughter.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Garrison of Fourth street, at Pomona hospital, last week, a son.

Teague Reviews Laws Won by Agricultural Committee

By C. C. TEAGUE

Address at recent fruit

growers' convention.

Editor's note—Mr. Teague is president of the California Fruit Growers'
Exchange and of the California Walnut Growers' Association. He writes here of his work as chairman of the agricultural legislative committee of the state, which functions in the interests of the farmer.

When I spoke to you a year ago at the convention in Fresno on the subject of "The work of the Agricultural Legislative Committee," I said that the organization was still in a formative period, but that we had great hopes, a few of which I outlined. Today I am glad to come before you with the knowledge that many of these hopes have been realized, and that if our success during the past year is an index the future gives much promise.

We can point with satisfaction to some thirty agricultural measures passed and signed, including several important and fundamental measures, but the really big achievement was proving that the farmers could stick together on a legislative program.

As was to be expected, differences of opinion developed between different groups within our organization, and in such instances the groups involved
fought out the issues among themselves,
but they did not permit these differences to keep them from going in unison on the many bills pertaining to the general good of agriculture.

It seemed reasonable to suppose that it would be better for farmers to first attempt to understand each other through an exchange of ideas around a table before airing our differences in a legislative committee, and when tried at the recent session this plan worked out admirably.

As mentioned a year ago the success
of a farmers' legislative organization must be based on sound principles, its activities must not be partisan. It must stick strictly to agricultural legislation being certain that such legislation is also for the general welfare, and it must beware of affiliations no matter how alluring. All of these principles have been strictly adhered to and events have proved that they were sound.

By joining together we have been able to handle agricultural legislation
in a businesslike manner, to carefully marshal our facts and figures and to present these in an orderly fashion at the opportune moment without loss of time or expense, to carefully analyze all agricultural measures, to properly construct bills through the aid of a good attorney, to keep the farmers continually informed through numerous bulletins, and by having a man everlastingly on the job to care for the multitudinous details which always arise. This was an accomplishment of which the farmers may well be proud,
and it effectiveness so far as results are concerned have been amply demonstrated.

STATE'S BIGGEST INDUSTRY.

We must not forget that agriculture
is the basic industry, that it is California's biggest industry—America's biggest industry. It is not only advisable to protect this enormous investment but because of its fundamental nature and potential power we are invested with a deep responsibility.

If through our negligence, and we must admit that we have been negligent, if through this negligence we permit conditions to arise which breed discontent, and if we permit this discontent to become organized by clever or self-seeking individuals as we have seen it so organized in a midwestern state, are we not then responsible for whatever results may ensue? Is it not better to take this matter into our hands, to carefully study our problems
as they arise and lay out a constructive program which will work for the benefit of the farmer? Yes—but not for him alone—for the benefit of all. It can be done.

In spite of the enormous power in the farmers' hands we did not carry on what might be termed an "oppressive lobby," as did some other groups to the discomfort of the legislators.

Our representative was able to present facts when necessary, to call in farmers for testimony when this seemed advisable, and by letter and wire to present an analysis of measures to individual farmers and allow them to communicate with their legislators. In this manner we were able to maintain the confidence of the legislators at all times.

URGES INTENSIVE CARE.

I wish to particularly emphasize the necessity for carefully analyzing agricultural measures before they are introduced. We can not afford to sponsor any half-baked or immature legislation
because a small amount of such practice will work greatly to our detriment.

On the whole the bills presented at the last legislature were carefully considered, but there were a few presented at the last minute which necessarily were passed upon hastily and this condition should not again be permitted to arise. The different industries desiring legislation should begin early to formulate this legislation, to thresh it out with the interested members, and to be ready to present it early in the session.

Besides the passage of bills there is work to be done which is of a negative nature. Several dangerous bills were presented at the last legislature which had to be blocked. Would you suppose that any one would present a bill which would require farmers to market their crops whether or not it is profitable to do so?

Almost every industry in the state has at one time or another faced a period when the market price was below the cost of production. Yet last winter when many lemons were lying on the ground because it was unprofitable to market them a bill was proposed which would have required all farmers to market their crops regardless of price.

It developed that the author of the bill had not noticed that it effected farmers at all since he was aiming at dumping practices of certain commission men which he maintained should be corrected. We found that he had copied a bill verbatim from a Montana statute, and a telegram to the director of agriculture of Montana brought the response that it had never been enforced against the farmers of that state.

It is possible that if passed it would never have been enforced against the farmers of California, but certainly it was taking too great a chance to permit such a law to go on the statute books of California so some unsympathetic city judge might use it to create havoc in some of our industries.

Another bill which promised great hardship to the dairy industry was the so-called oleomargarine bill. This measure, sponsored by a powerful subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company, was only beaten after a very stiff fight. One bill which was strongly urged would have required that every egg sold at retail be candled. Only an unnecessary burden would have been added to both the poultryman and the consumer.

Another bill would have limited the storage of food products to 90 days,
while we all know that many products must be stored during the period of heavy production in order that the supply may be met during the slack period.
These and other bills required vigorous action to protect the farmers' interest,
and certainly form one of the important functions of our committee. Along this line it might be added that probably there would be more detrimental legislation proposed were it not for our careful watchfulness.

FOR THE COST.

You have probably been thinking that the results of the past years' work
have been substantial, but that it cost the farmers a lot of money. I am glad to state that for the 60,000 farmers represented on the agricultural legislative committee the cost was an average of 25 cents each.

It is true that during our last legislative session, agriculture was at very low ebb, and this naturally assisted us
in our program.

It also seems that farmers were more alert regarding legislative matters than ever before, and this too was of material assistance. In fact this individual interest is a fundamental necessity for the best type of legislation and to the deep and intelligent interest of the individual expressed through his organization we must look for the future success of our legislative program.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to all of our friends and neighbors who kindly assisted and who remembered
us in our late bereavement.

Contractor to Build in New Dexter Place

E. G. Smith of 4269 Brighton avenue, Los Angeles, a contractor and painter, has purchased of Joseph Huddleston and Summerfield Douglas their two lots recently purchased in the new Dexter Place tract. The transfers of property were made this week.

Mr. Smith announces that he will build a $5000 residence on the property as soon as he can get the work started.

The owners in this tract, in addition to the lots bought by Mr. Smith, are: Gene I. Griswold, Dallas M. Young, W. L. Emerick, Charles V. Gray, Geo. W. Haynes, Crystal L. Gates, Maude Fairly, J. C. Franklin, Elmer A. Nigg, Gordon C. Douglas, and Covina Lumber company.

Outline Program for Covina Men's Club

The Covina Men's club meeting is to be held Tuesday night, November 22, at 6:30. Don't forget to have your supper reservations in the postoffice by Saturday night this week.

There promises to be a record breaking crowd, and any later reservations may have to be turned down on account of limited number that can be fed.

G. Harold Powell, general manager of the California Fruit Growers Exchange, will be the principal speaker, his subject being "Eastern Conditions and Their Relation to the California Citrus Industry."

Our membership list will be open up to and including this meeting. The annual dues are only $1, and every man in this community should be a member. It is organized and conducted along broad, democratic lines, and is a power for good to this community. You had better come in with us.

The open forum discussion will be "The Advisability of Covina Valley Organizing a Building and Loan Association." Come and express your views.

Yours for success,
C. E. CRAWFORD, President.

Women Outline Plans For Red Cross Drive

Mrs. T. Guthrie, president of the Women's Relief Corps, has taken charge of the Red Cross membership drive in the Covina city and valley, accepting the position from W. A. Viney, originally named.

Mrs. Guthrie explained this week that she cannot accept the position in the name of the Relief Corps, but will do the work in the capacity of an individual. She will have as her assistants Mrs. E. H. Sprague, Mrs. W. Anderson, Mrs. H. Porteous, Miss Winnifred Bowring, Mrs. E. Leck and Miss Clare Sanborn for the Charter Oak district, with Mrs. Sprague as active chairman. Miss Eva D. Edwards will have charge of the campaign in the schools. A house-to-house canvass will be made by members of the Woman's Relief Corps.

Arrangements are made for the establishing of a booth at the First National bank corner tomorrow. All old members are expected to renew memberships, and many new ones are expected.

RED CROSS PLANS.

The committee yesterday gave out the following statement:

The prevailing public sentiment seems to be that now the war is over the public is privileged to forget the war and all its consequences. We must all realize that our greatest work is now being done, and that for the next few years we will have a tremendous amount of work in looking after those unfortunate service men who owe their present wretched physical condition and financial condition to their service in the war.

As you know, the American Red Cross in the United States obtains its finances with which to carry on the humanitarian work in which it is engaged, through the sale of memberships in its organization, at one dollar per member. The membership sale takes place once a year, and is known as the annual roll-call. This year the roll-call all over the nation began Nov. 11, and concludes Nov. 24th.

Citrus High Forfeits All Football Games

As the result of a ruling handed down by the California Interscholastic Federation, the league of which Citrus high school is a member, has voted to exclude all football games played by Citrus high this year, pronouncing them as having been played contrary to the rules.

This is the ruling that has been expected for some time, and which was said to be necessary because of the inclusion of Hall, the famous high school fullback, in the Azusa team. Citrus high had contended that Hall was eligible to play. The C. I. F. made a general ruling on the question, and one which is understood to cover all like cases. The league took its premise from the C. I. F., and ruled out the Citrus games.

The C. I. F. is made up of the presidents of all high school leagues in Southern California. Its rulings are final in questions of school sports. The leagues in the jurisdiction of the C. I. F. act in accordance with the rulings of the higher body.

Hall is one of the best, if not the best, football stars ever produced in high school sport in this part of the county. The correct status of the Citrus high team has been a matter of animated discussion during the season.

Prayer Service Held on Armistice Day

Observing the patriotic suggestion every community hold a season of prayer and Thanksgiving on Armistice day, the W. C. T. U. and members of the Monday Afternoon club gathered last Friday in the Star theater and conducted an impressive service, attended by a large audience.

Included in the patriotic exercises were short addresses by local ministers. Rev. Howard B. Clark of the Methodist church gave tribute to those who participated in the war; Rev. C. D. Eddy gave a talk on prayer, as did Rev. Edward Williams. Mrs. J. L. Matthews sang Cecil Forsyth's "O, Red Is the English Rose," accompanied by Alice Anderson. The audience sang "America, the Beautiful," "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," and "America." Mrs. C. W. Coman read appropriate selections from the scriptures.

ALL-DAY W. C. T. U. MEETING AT SIMPSON HOME TODAY

Any and everyone interested is cordially invited to attend the regular all-day meeting of the local W. C. T. U. today (Friday) at the home of Mrs. J. H. Simpson, corner of Azusa and Cypress avenues, from 10:30 to 3:30. Arrangements for the coming regional conference, December 1 and 2, will be made, and the afternoon program will be a questionnaire and discussion upon the disarmament conference. Will each one attending please bring sandwiches or fruit and her own individual silver, cup and plate? A substantial hot dish and coffee will be provided by the committee. Those wishing transportation please phone Mrs. G. W. Mitchell or Mrs. Mary M. Coman by 10 o'clock. Autos will leave Mrs. Frank Johnson's home, Italia street, by 10:20.

The organization of young men at Irwindale for self improvement is not selfish in its motives, but is encouraging similar work in other communities. Twenty-eight men of Mexican birth or descent at El Monte sent a request to Miss Fitch, who is in charge of the night school at Irwindale, to come and teach them. Owing to her inability to go they will ask for another teacher and Monrovia and Puente are expecting to follow a similar plan.

The possibilities for Americanization and broadening the scope of education under such circumstances are almost limitless, but greatly handicapped by insufficient equipment, especially poor light.

Any of the local organizations willing to assist will have ample opportunity. At present anyone having a gasoline lamp for sale will confer a favor by reporting to Mrs. McCulley at the high school.

Organize Covina Boys in Junior Rifle Corps

Covina now has a Winchester junior rifle corps. When the Winchester company enlarged its field of manufacturing at the close of the war to the making of tools of all kinds, it at the same time instituted a department for social service, one branch of which is to train boys and young men in the use of firearms as a means of self-control and accuracy as well as for efficiency in marksmanship. To this end it offers a series of beautiful medals to boys under eighteen years of age who are organized under competent leadership, and with trained instructors who master the use of a rifle.

Crowell D. Eddy, pastor of the Baptist church, had charge of such a corps while in San Bernardino in connection with the local Y. M. C. A. Since coming to Covina he has had charge of the local troupe of Boy Scouts, and has now organized his second-class Scouts into a Winchester Junior rifle corps.

George Hargrave of the high school has also organized the "Hi-Y" club into such a corps. Mr. Hargrave is an expert with the rifle, and has had charge of this work in connection with Y. M. C. A. summer camps.

The boys of the "Hi-Y" club and the Boy Scouts have erected and equipped a complete rifle range, with earth backstop, gun racks, marksman's mounts, scoring table, safety line, and traveling targets, by which no boy ever can by any possibility step ahead of the firing line. The Covina Gun club has given space for this equipment on their grounds on south Citrus avenue. Every possible safety arrangement is made. The boys will only use the range under the direction of either Mr. Hargrave or Mr. Eddy.

The material for the construction of the range has been donated by McClellan & Larkin, the local Winchester store, and the work of construction has been done by the boys themselves.

High school boys wishing to get into the high school corps should see Mr. Hargrave, and grammar school boys, twelve years of age and older, should apply through the Scoutmaster, Mr. Eddy. Percy Jackson has accepted the position of assistant scoutmaster and drillmaster, and particulars regarding the Boy Scout work may also be obtained through him.

Boys joining one of the corps will first be obliged to learn the use of a rifle, how to care for it, and the eighteen rules for the safe use before going onto the range. A gun will be provided by each corps for the use of all of the boys, but boys owning guns may use them. Ammunition will be furnished at cost. There is no other expense.

Tolls Abolished in San Antonio Canyon

At a conference recently between Supervisor Prescott F. Cogswell, Deputy County Counsel Bishop and Glen D. Smith, representing the county of Los Angeles and the San Antonio Water Company, respectively, an agreement was reached in regard to the road leading into San Antonio canyon. It was agreed to pay the San Antonio Water Company $10,000 for their rights, $7,500 to be paid by Los Angeles county, and $2,500 by San Bernardino county; the water company agreeing to give the counties ground for necessary road camps and building material for road work.

The road will be taken over and the toll system abolished on the second Monday in January.

LEGION ASKS SUPPORT IN RAISING FINANCES

The American Legion of Covina has reached a crisis in its affairs. The local organization, in attempting to carry out the ideals of the American Legion and its own local program, has been continually handicapped by lack of money. Our proper work consists of preserving the ties that bound us as comrades during the war; looking after the welfare of distressed ex-service men, and their families, holding a funeral for a fallen comrade; upholding the flag; working toward a clean government; and lastly, co-operating with the local city government and progressive forces of our community. Included in this latter phase of our activities has been our program for the building of a new city park to contain a swimming pool for the use of the community, and a club house home for the American Legion where we can carry on our activities in an efficient manner.

All this takes money. Legion membership is composed largely of comparatively poor men, so that large and extensive membership dues are out of the question. It has been our policy never to ask for contributions from the people for purely legion purposes. We prefer to stand on our own feet and get out and push rather than get in and ride. So we have attempted to finance ourselves in the past by giving various entertainments, baseball games, May day festival, and a splendid Lyceum course of entertainments, which is still running. The net result of all this has been a disappointment. We have lost money on nearly all of them.

Finally we hit upon the plan of giving amateur boxing contests. From the start they have been a financial success. With a few possible exceptions that have been remedied, these contests have been put on by splendid young athletes who put up a clean and manly exhibition of skill and science. In itself boxing is no more objectionable than football, baseball or any other athletic contest. Vaudeville shows and moving pictures are often permitted that have a real tendency to corrupt morals, but boxing is objected to by some, although it does not corrupt morals, but rather inspires to clean living, muscular development, gameness and courage. These are red-blooded virtues and will appeal to red-blooded people. It is a splendid exercise that develops the body and mind as scarcely any other exercise can do.

The American Legion has felt a heavy responsibility in promoting these contests and has striven to make them clean and wholesome entertainments. Extraordinary precaution will be taken at tonight's contest to prevent any rough or boisterous conduct and to have an entertainment that no one can object to. We are strictly opposed to gambling and friends of the legion are earnestly requested not to do any betting on legion events. However, should any betting come to our attention, drastic steps will be taken to put a stop to it. While it is common for certain people to bet on any event from a foot race to the next day's weather, and authorities consider it useless to try to prevent it, the American Legion feels almost as if it were on trial for its life, and must and will keep its hands clean.

We want to be a progressive part of our community. We want to co-operate with the new chamber of commerce, with the churches, the Red Cross and other agencies for good. We want to help build up Covina, to help with the park and the swimming pool, and we want a home where we can carry out our work of helping ex-service men and their families. With the money we make from these contests we can do these things. All we ask is for the people of Covina to bear with us, to not criticize too severely but to keep a sympathetic attitude. Our mistakes will be rectified. We are a responsible organization and our own strictest judge. Are you with us?

S. G. SCOTFIELD,
Member Publicity Committee
of the American Legion.

Covina Men Discuss Pasadena Stadium

A. J. Bertonneau, manager of the stadium committee, and J. W. Wood, treasurer of the tournament of roses, motored Saturday morning to Pasadena to discuss with local business men plans for the new million dollar athletic stadium to be built next year in Pasadena for the annual east and west football games and other important events.

The Pasadena men said the new athletic plant would be financed through the sale of five and ten-year seats. The five-year seats are selling for fifty dollars each, plus war tax of five dollars, and the ten-year seats are on sale for one hundred dollars, plus ten dollars war tax. Boxes of six seats each also are to be sold for twelve hundred dollars.

The holder of each seat is entitled to admission to the stadium for all events during the term of his reservation without additional cost after he has paid the purchase price of his seat.

The stadium will be one of the most modern of its type in the world, and will have a capacity of sixty-five thousand permanent seats and facilities for fifteen thousand temporary seats. The structure will be of reinforced concrete and the seats of wood. In many features the stadium will resemble the big Yale bowl. A quarter mile track will be built around the gridiron.

It was proposed that Covina men purchase a block of seats so that patrons of the football game in a compact delegation. This is the plan recently adopted by Long Beach, Riverside, Monrovia and other cities and towns in Southern California.

Afternoon Club in Aesthetic Program

Although the day outside was chilly and gray, within the club-house all was warmth and beauty.

The decorations of roses and ferns brightened the shadowy spots, while a cheery fire blazed in the broad fireplace.

It was Covina day at the club, insofar as talent was concerned.

In recognition of Armistice day, the meeting opened with the salute to the flag, led by Mrs. C. W. Coman, the audience remaining standing till after the singing of "America."

Mrs. Sarah Letchworth gave her poem, "Armistice Day," which was well received. Rev. Edward Williams sang, by request, "America, the Beautiful," responding with "The Song Divine."

Mrs. Robert Neely read the first and fifth scenes from Drinkwater's "Abraham Lincoln," commanding rapt attention.

Miss Thelma Burk gave the "Sextette From Lucia," (by the Russian composer, Leschetizski) arranged for the left hand, responding to an encore.

Mrs. G. D. Jennings gave a review of Sinclair Lewis' novel, "Main Street," assisted by Mrs. Robert Neely, who read certain paragraphs from the book.

Mrs. V. T. Blocker sang two numbers, "Italian Aria" and "By the Waters of Minnetonka." Mrs. Damerel added much to the success of all the vocal numbers by her sympathetic accompaniments.

Closing the program came the discussion of Dorothy Canfield's "The Brimming Cup," given by Mrs. Jennings with the co-operation of Mrs. Neely.

Following the custom, tea and cakes were served, Mrs. Burnham and Mrs. Broadwell in charge of the tea tables, assisted by other members of the committee.

Oil Derrick to Rise in Heart of Puente

Puente Journal: Gratian Bidart reports that an oil syndicate has leased the Casimer Didier place adjoining Puente on the east and will have a rig up within sixty days. This will practically give a well in town, as the location is at the head of Main street not over a half-mile from the Journal office. It is just over the hill from the Bardeen well which will probably be a producer within the next thirty days.

The Pasadena-Puente Co. is drilling out the cement, preparatory to a new effort to shut off the water.

The Garnier well is progressing nicely and the work of rigging up on the Alvarado lease is well under way.

Get on the advertising wagon while going is good. Loose-jointed business methods undermine the strongest commercial structure, and yours may be no exception. Read elsewhere in this edition of the Argus plan to cover every family in the Upper San Gabriel valley.

Canadian War Veteran Buys Park Restaurant

Lieutenant A. L. Mills, young Canadian infantry officer of the famous "Princess Pat" regiment, who saw five years of hard service in the world-war, is the new proprietor of the Park restaurant, nearly opposite the Argus office on Badillo street.

Lieutenant Mills is here with his wife, and announces that he is going to build up a permanent business. He is an experienced restaurateur, and since his discharge has been in business in Calgary and Vancouver. He has come to Covina to make his home here, he said this week.

The young Canadian is the possessor of the "Monsieur" medal, the coveted medal of the Canadian contingent, and has several service medals. He rose from a private to the rank of lieutenant during the world-war, and is entitled to the rank of captain. The famous Princess Pat regiment saw some of the hardest service of any contingent with the allies.

Lieutenant Mills intends to make a number of changes in the interior of the restaurant, and is announcing a big Thanksgiving menu. Citizens of the valley who appreciate a good square shooter, and who want to aid in putting a world-war veteran on the road to success, will do well to drop in and get acquainted. Announcement of the Thanksgiving menu will be found in another part of this paper.

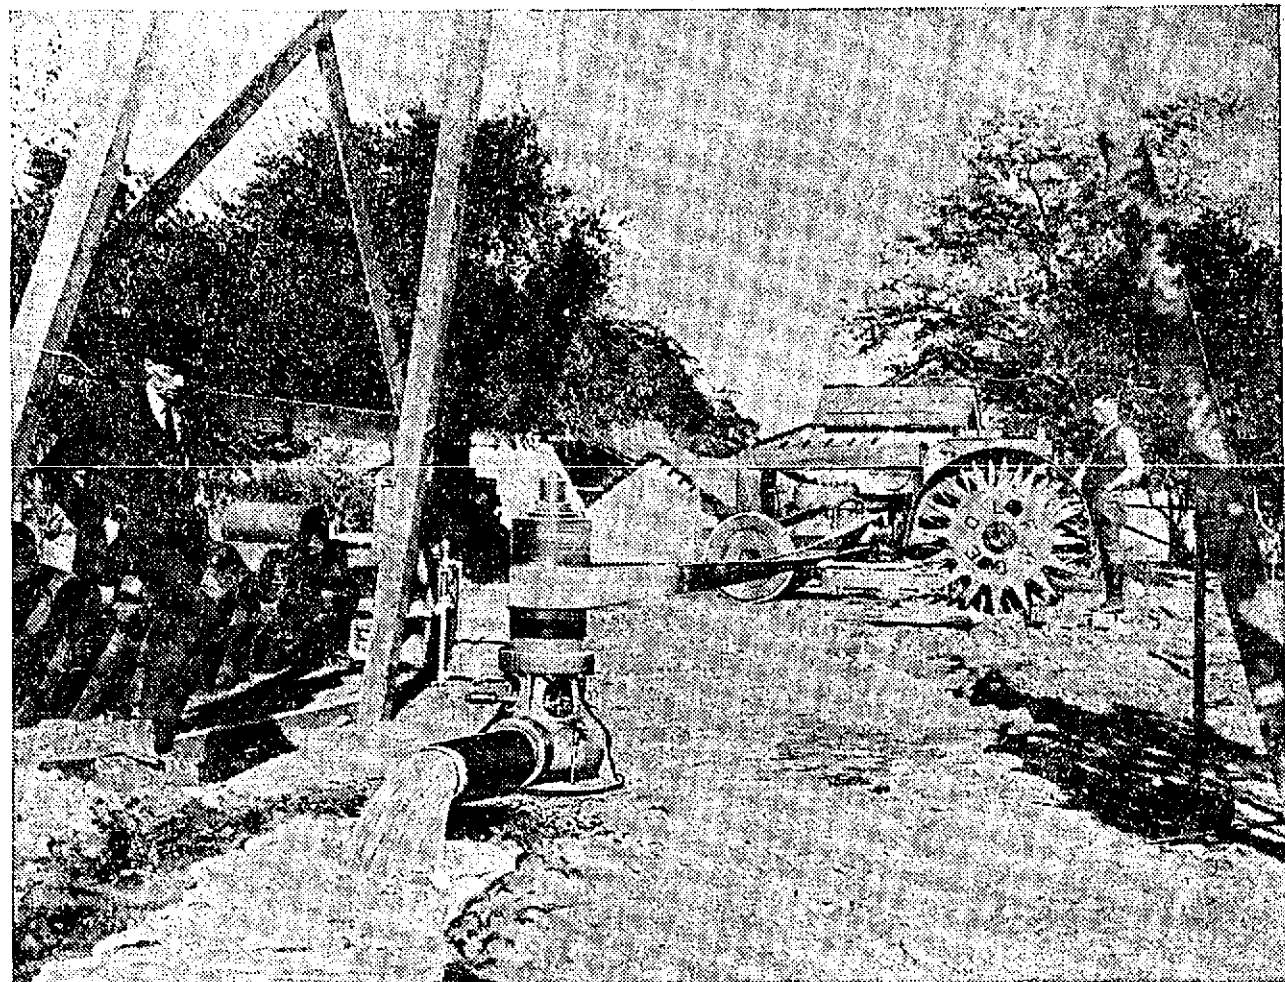

Former Grand Jury Banquets at Venice

At the home of Alec R. Fraser in Venice on Tuesday evening of this week, the annual reunion of the members of the Los Angeles county grand jury of 1910-11 was held, with all the living members present.

This inquisitorial body served for a year steadily, during the time following the dynamiting outrages, when the Los Angeles Times was blown up and twenty lives lost, and when other violent acts were under investigation. The jury brought forth the indictments upon which the dynamiters were tried and convicted. At the time a thorough investigation of all the branches of business of the county was conducted.

The members present at the banquet were Charles Wier of 3049 West Sixth street, Los Angeles, who was foreman of that jury; J. L. Matthews of Covina, for secretary; Elmer E. Webster, Redondo; R. F. DeGarmo, El Monte; Thomas B. Chapman, Rivera; J. E. Carr, Westmoreland Place, Los Angeles; J. H. Linkletter, Whittier; Jacob Swigart, Las Casitas, Pasadena; S. G. Tyler, 858 East Twenty-eighth street, Los Angeles; J. H. Cavanah, Redondo; F. E. McCollum, 731 East Adams street, Los Angeles, and Alec R. Fraser, Venice.

Those who have passed away are: John Scott, Duarte; E. J. Vawter, Santa Monica; C. H. Lloyd, Los Angeles; John Bloeser, Los Angeles; J. M. Tibbette, Los Angeles; Samuel W. Pyle and S. E. Allen, Pasadena.

CENTRAL AMERICAN PICTURES SHOWN AT BAPTIST CHURCH

The stereopticon pictures of Central America which were shown at the Baptist church on Wednesday evening under the auspices of the Mission society were well received by the large audience present.

The pictures consisted of photographs of the American missionaries, the native pastor and his followers. Street and marketing scenes and some of the Roman Catholic cathedrals, as well as the home life of the natives, were shown.

The showing of these pictures will be a regular occurrence the third Wednesday evening of every month. The next group will be on Cuba, and they will be explained by Miss Clark of the high school faculty, who has visited in and is acquainted with that country.

Two Shoots Scheduled at Gun Club Grounds

A committee composed of Al Marshall, Earl Cushman, Louis Hodges, representing enthusiasts of the rifle and shotgun, will conduct an all-day shoot on Sunday at the grounds of the Covina Gun club on South Citrus avenue, to which everyone interested is invited. The shoot will include an opportunity of trying the luck over a fifty-yard range, as well as blue rock contests with shotguns. The committee invites every sportsman, and promises some good prizes.

On Wednesday, November 24, the day before Thanksgiving, the Covina Gun club will hold a shoot, beginning at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. This is open to all comers. A unique feature of this event is that "winners must shoot with winners," thereby allowing other contestants a fair chance for a bird in the second event. All tie scores will be settled by the "miss and out" method.

Postoffice Inspector Frank F. Sharon visited the local postoffice last week, and was in consultation with Postmaster D. F. Stafford regarding the leasing of property for postoffice use for the next five or ten years, as the lease on the present postoffice property will expire on May 28, 1922.

Inspector Sharon is ready to receive proposals and bids for property and equipment for postoffice purposes, and those who want information concerning said property and equipment should get in touch with Postmaster Stafford, as he has the dimensions of the room and a list of the equipment that will be required to meet the needs of the postoffice for the future. He will gladly furnish all this information in full to all who have property which they desire to lease to the government for this purpose.

The American Legion will open its new boxing arena tonight on the Covina city park grounds with a series of boxing bouts said to be better than anything the Legion has secured in the past, according to a statement by the arena officials yesterday.

Young Stanley Ketchel of Ontario, at 150 pounds, will meet Bob Mankin of Los Angeles, who makes the same weight. This is expected to be the main event, although, in amateur boxing there is sure to be surprises from some of the lesser-advertised events.

Mickie Daniels of Baldwin Park will meet the well-known Battling Sabo of Ross Field, weight 130; Al Archuleta of Glendora meets Mik Sobol of Los Angeles at 150; Red Phurmond of Los Angeles faces Kid Webster of Ontario at 145; Royal Elliott of Puente will meet Young Jack Dempsey at 145. There are some other events that are reserved as surprises.

The arena has been finished this week, and has a capacity of 1400 seats. Rain or shine, it will be easy and dry in the arena, the Legion men say. A special invitation is extended to women who enjoy good and lively and clean boxing.

STATE BUSINESS IMPROVES, SAYS COVINA MERCHANT

Homer F. Larkin, of the hardware firm of McClellan & Larkin, together with his wife, have just returned from a week spent in San Francisco and the bay region, making their trip by automobile.

Mr. Larkin says that the business conditions in the north are much improved over what they were in the summer when he made a similar trip, but that they do not yet compare with the brisk conditions in Southern California.

"Southern California is the bright spot in a business way in the United States," said Mr. Larkin. "And Covina is as well off as any place in Southern California," he added.

Home Directors Given Reception by Masons

An enjoyable method of introducing the new superintendent of the Masonic Home at Covina to the people of the city and valley was taken on Wednesday evening of this week, when La Paloma chapter, O. E. S., held a reception for Mr. and Mrs. Leland Drew in the Masonic temple, in which Mrs. Miller, matron of the home, also shared.

The affair was attended by a large number of Masons and Star members. The words of welcome to Mr. Drew and his wife and Mrs. Miller were very happily expressed by Mrs. W. S. Sawyer, worthy matron of the chapter.

The musical program included piano solos by Mrs. Charles Bull, tenor solos by Leroy Blanchard, with Mrs. Charles Hasselider as accompanist. Mrs. W. P. Nye gave a talk on "The Home," which was in part the address which she recently delivered before Los Angeles women.

Mr. and Mrs. Drew, the latter having arrived in the past few days, are domiciled in the new bungalow built for them on the grounds of the institution.

Chevrolet Stolen and Stripped by Roadside

A Chevrolet car belonging to George W. Haynes of the county road department was taken from his garage Wednesday night and driven to a point near the Kirtland ranch, where it was stripped of its two rear tires and deserted.

Astounding the Diplomats

The right thing to do is generally the most obvious thing. When Secretary Hughes proposed this week that the making of armament cease for ten years, and that naval equipment in the process of making be scrapped, it was announced as coming like a bombshell into the camps of the assembled nations. Newspapers heralded it as bold, statesmanlike, and surprisingly acute. But if a Covina blacksmith, a grocer or an orange rancher had been selected by the world to evolve a plan by which world armament might be reduced, it is conceivable that the first thing these humble gentlemen would have done would have been to proceed to reduce armaments. Wouldn't that be the logical thing to do? Isn't it the obvious thing to do? Yet, so bemuddled is the world and its leaders at the present time, the obvious action comes as a thunderclap. The cerebral mazes of diplomacy are beyond the common man to figure out.

When President Wilson gave publicity to his fourteen points, the war-jaded mind of the world leaped with joy at the suggestions. The American president became the idol of the world. President Wilson's brave and clear utterances at that time stand out, and will ever stand out as a voice heard speaking wisely in a maelstrom. He proved himself the greatest of all statesmen at that critical time because he saw clearly, and gave expression to the obviously-right thing to do.

And so Hughes and the American statesmen have done a great thing at the outset of this disarmament conference—not through their ability to evolve and involve the question in amazing intricacies, but by proposing to do exactly what had been proposed. This is statesmanship.

To be great, one must be simple. Lincoln retained this ability all through the confusion of another crisis. To concentrate on the thing at hand, and to see and to speak clearly although diplomats would lead the question into a morass of verbiage—that is statesmanship. Christ confounded his questioners with simple logic, simple facts. That man who will not be led into the by-paths of specious argument will continue to see and to act clearly, and his fame is assured.

To keep the common touch is the most difficult thing in all advancement in life. But no advancement is real unless the common touch is retained. "The finer pot is for silver and the furnace for gold." Facts are silver residue and truth is golden dross beneath the dross. The simple touch refines them.

We reiterate that the way to disarm is to disarm. All other statements concerning disarmament are idle and futile, and are made for the purpose of bringing the question to futility. A committee of Covina valley ranchers and business men can solve the question of disarmament if given the authority. So can Hughes if his authority is extended to the point where he can force diplomats to confront the actual question. There is nothing cryptic about the question. It is not mysterious. It is not involved. The involvement lies in the perpetuation of the status quo. The way to bring about disarmament is to begin to disarm.

Protect Us From Thugs

Extra police, furnished by Los Angeles county, should be put at work patrolling the outlying districts at once.

Not only has the Covina valley been visited by a series of costly and dangerous burglaries, but these breaks are being reported in every community throughout Southern California. Property-owners are losing hundreds of dollars in property, and lives are being placed in jeopardy by these burglars. And the season when thugs and burglars infest California from the east has just begun.

A constable in each township is an inadequate protection. These constables are doing all they can to trace burglars after the crimes have been committed, but absolutely no system of patrol has been effected.

If the county will put motorcycle officers on duty in excess of the number now employed, and will appoint extra deputies for the country districts, the result in the prevention of these crimes will more than offset the extra expense to the county. Knowledge that the county is being patrolled by extra police will act to a large extent as a deterrent to burglars.

Unless something of this kind is done we can look with a certainty to an epidemic of burglaries all through the county. The most dangerous aspect of the situation is that some citizens may lose their lives or be seriously injured because of this influx of trained crooks and murderous thugs from the east.

The winter in California is always the season when the crooks come in from the east, but this year, more than ever, they are headed this way. Unemployment in the east has driven hundreds of near-crooks who sometimes work to resort to breaking and entering. Hold-ups in this county are growing in number at a most alarming rate. This county is well able to increase its present police force, and it should be done at once. Citizens are demanding that this step be taken.

People Should Own Water and Power

By WILLIAM J. LOCKE

Water, like light and air, has always been regarded as one commodity that should never be subject to private ownership or control. The human mind repels the very thought of such a thing. Without these three elements—air, light and water—life would be impossible. They have been given to man by God Almighty himself and are the common heritage of all. Therefore, it is most repugnant to think of water or the use of water becoming the property of an individual or private corporation. 11-22

The business of generating hydro-electric power in California to a very large extent is now in the hands of four large corporations founded by the consolidation of many small companies. There is talk of further consolidation so that ultimately the light and power business of the state will be entirely in the hands of two or perhaps only one large private corporation, which will be able to exact a profit from every lamp that's burned and every wheel that's turned in this great state. 11-22

There is every argument in favor of development by the state. In the first place the state can obtain the funds required much cheaper than the private corporations. The state will have no difficulty in floating its bonds on a 5 1/2 per cent basis, whereas the private companies would have to pay at least two per cent more. At the present writing it is reported that the six per cent bonds of one of the largest privately owned utility companies in the state are on sale for $78 per share, or $22 below par. This is something to think about. 11-22

The private companies are repeatedly declaring that public ownership, and operation is a failure, that it is inefficient and wasteful. 11-22

In California today there are 119 cases of municipally owned water works, 24 electric light and gas plants, and in practically every case they have maintained lower rates and have given better service than the others which are privately owned. 11-22

There is evidence that the power companies and allied financial interests will base their campaign against the measure on an effort to align the north against the south and the city against the country. "Keep the state divided" is to be their campaign slogan. 11-22

The committee that assisted in preparing the new act includes men and women from the north and the south, the city and the country, and all have been zealous champions of the rights of their respective communities for years. It is sufficient to cite the public records of these men and women as final and absolute disproof of the charge that anyone of them could or would participate in a plan designed to give one section an advantage over another. 11-22

The only advantage sought by the originators of this measure is the advantage of California. The one most imperative duty of all the citizens of California today is to unite on a program of California development—not of San Francisco or Los Angeles or San Joaquin or Sacramento valley development, but of the state of California from one end to the other. 11-22

County Farm Bureau Dues Not Increased

No action being taken at the recent annual meeting of the farm bureau held at Pomona, dues will remain the same as for the past year. 11-22

Los Angeles county therefore remains the only county in the state which has not increased the original county farm bureau dues of $1.00 which goes to the county organization. The remaining $1.50 is divided between the state and national federation dues. 11-22

The majority of the farm bureaus in California are now on a $5.00 dues basis and a few assess $7.50 and $10.00. An intensive membership campaign for Los Angeles county is planned during the fall months, with a goal of not less than 4,000 members to be the aim of the membership committee. 11-22
